Course Description

This Peer Learning Assistants training course will introduce participants to current research on how people learn, review strategies for engaging undergraduates in active learning, and offer opportunities to model effective group facilitation during session activities. Participants will participate in small group discussions of pedagogical resource materials, brainstorm solutions to common teaching challenges, and share personal reflections of their teaching experiences.

Learning Objectives

Upon successful completion this course, Peer Learning Assistants will be able to:

- Evaluate and apply metacognitive learning strategies to your learning
- Illustrate the different approaches to learning and identify the mechanisms to support your learning and the learning of your peers
- Effectively communicate ideas, thoughts, and knowledge to your peers to support their learning
- Identify and explain the appropriate academic and non-academic campus resources to your peers depending on the circumstances/situations they disclose

Course Information

All course information including a copy of the syllabus, assignment due dates, and policy information can be found in eLC. Announcements about the class will be posted here as well as changes to the syllabus. You are responsible for checking eLC for announcements on a regular basis.

Grading/Evaluation

This course is graded on a plus/minus A-F scale. Your grade will be based on the following assignments and class engagement/participation. For further information please look on eLC for all assignments and the posted gradebook.

Class Engagement	40%
Weekly Reflective Essays	30%
Class Project	20%
Best Practices to Teaching Report	10%

Class Engagement – based on attendance and engagement in the class session. In-class engagement is one of the largest components of your grade because we want to see you actively engaged in the material and with each other in this process. Learning is doing, and I expect to see you coming to class prepared to discuss the different topics and readings in place. Missing even one class can have a significant impact on your performance in this course. Please DO NOT schedule any other appointments or activities during your scheduled class sessions.

In the event that the university cancels classes, such as for severe weather, students are expected to continue with readings as originally scheduled. Any assignments scheduled during those missed classes, such as a project or paper, are due at the next class meeting unless other instructions are posted at the course website or communicated via email.

Weekly Reflective Essays will consist of a ½ to 1 page reflection on what you learned in that class period and what you will apply to your teaching practices. These will be typed and submitted on eLC, due before the start of the next class period. Quality and effort put into these reflective writings will determine your grade on the assignment – so please take the time to do quality work here.

Class Project - students will work in groups to develop a success resource that will be shared with their peers. Details concerning this project will be released later in the semester.

Assignments within this category:
Group Outline Activity: 10% of the category
Final Project: 90% of the category

Best Practices to Teaching Report will be a 4-5 page synthesis report, demonstrating all that you have learned from the course and how you plan to incorporate these practices into your future teaching and/or dissemination of information in your intended career path. See assignment document for further instructions.

Course Policies

Full participation is expected, including interaction with other PLAs and the instructor is essential. The best way to do this is to come to class prepared and think about what you'll be doing.

All students are responsible for maintaining the highest standards of honesty and integrity in every phase of their academic careers. The penalties for academic dishonesty are severe and ignorance is not an acceptable defense. "Academic Honesty" means performing all academic work without plagiarism, cheating, lying, tampering, stealing, receiving unauthorized or illegitimate assistance from another person, or using any source of information that is not common knowledge.

“Academic Dishonesty” means knowingly performing, attempting to perform, or assisting any other person in performing any academic work that does not meet this standard of academic honesty. Assistance by another, when authorized by the Faculty Member, will not be considered academically dishonest, nor will using information that is fairly attributed to the source.

All academic work must meet the standards contained in “A Culture of Honesty.” Students are responsible for informing themselves about those standards before performing any academic work.

Grade Appeal Process

University of Georgia students have the right to appeal academic decisions. The burden of proof for an appeal rests with the student. The policies governing the process of appealing grades are covered in the Academic Affairs Policy Manual, General Academic Policy: Student Appeals (Section 4.05-01). All grade appeals must be initiated in writing to the instructor within one calendar year from the end of the term in which the grade was recorded. The process for appealing a grade in a UNIV course can be found at: <https://dae.uga.edu/courses/appeal-process/>.

Academic Honesty Policy

As a University of Georgia student, you have agreed to abide by the University’s academic honesty policy, “A Culture of Honesty,” and the Student Honor Code. All academic work must meet the standards described in “A Culture of Honesty” found at: https://honesty.uga.edu/resources/documents/academic_honesty_policy_2017.pdf. Lack of knowledge of the academic honesty policy is not a reasonable explanation for a violation. Questions related to course assignments and the academic honesty policy should be directed to the instructor.

Student Exceptionalities Statement

If you anticipate issues related to the format or requirements of this course, please meet with me. I would like us to discuss ways to ensure your full participation in the course.
